No. 50, Calle 25 de Mayo.

And is prepared to sell as good Ink, as any made in any part of the globe, and warranted to retain its beautiful jet black color which it has at the moment when used, at 50 p. c less than the same can be bought at any other house.

People under the impression, that they pay their $20 more for a quart bottle of English Ink, can have the same quality, that most of the Ink sold for English, is made in this country, and imposed upon the public as such. But I am not ashamed to put my own Name on the Label, being fully convinced that my Ink is of a much superior quality, and possesses more virtues than most of the Inks.

I—It is of a very rich black at the moment when used.

II.—Retains its color.

III.—Runs free off off the pen.

IV.—A preserver of the eyes to those, who have much to write at night time, runs free off, and does their eyesight, to see what they have written.

For the reasons explained, I hope that any prejudice generally entertained against Home Manufacture will be laid aside, and I ask it, to try the same which will be a benefit to the buyer, and the country, in assisting Home industry.

N. B.—Orders left at the office will be punctually attended to and delivered free of any charges.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 29, 1863.

DEATH OF THE FOREIGN PATRIARCH.

An Irish hero, a distinguished Argentine officer, and the oldest foreign resident in Buenos Aires, or probably in the New World, has passed away from among us, quietly and almost unnoticed. Captain Thomas Craig, the associate of Admiral Brown, died at his residence, the Santa Fé, on last Sunday, in the 84th year of his age, having resided in Buenos Ayres over 60 years, and served under the Argentine flag about half a century. As we had the pleasure to be acquainted with him and gathered from his personal narrative some remarkable incidents of his adventurous life, we will give the same to our readers, regretting that his biography was not published in life-time, under his own supervision.

Thomas Craig, like his former distinguished commander, was born amid those romantic scenes of the West of Ireland, where the old Celtic race is preserved in all its purity and vigor. He was, we believe, of humble parentage, and came up on the world's stage in that remarkable era of Irish history, just preceding the successful struggle for National Independence, when the Irish Volunteers indulged the hope of a fervid patriotism in the breasts of all. He left his home in the County Mayo, Eire, at an early age, and during the awful horrors of the rebellion of 1798 was towards the close of the 18th century he was serving as Mate on board a brig trading to Valparaiso, and in a return voyage was wrecked off the coast of Patagonia. All hands perished except Craig, the ship-carpenter and two others, who reached a barren coast in safety. Here, death again stared them in the face; but the carpenter managed to construct a raft out of the wreck which floated them to the Indian mainland. After unequalled toils, dangers, and adventures, they at length arrived at a Spanish outpost where they were arrested for vagrants and condemned to be shot.

Our hero, however, was destined not to die in his 20th year, but to render important service to his adopted country, and out-live a military period [illegible] of 70 winters. They told their wondrous story with some difficulty, and the Commander was so struck with sympathy that he sent a message to the vice-regal capital, and here they lay in prison about 2 years. In 1805, Craig began to serve in the River Plate in the capacity of Pilot, and when the war of Independence broke out, he lent his efforts to Buenos Ayres, meriting soon the command of a vessel under his valiant countryman, Brown. It would be beyond our scope, and fund of information to recite a detail of the hundred services rendered by Capt. Craig during 50 years.

Suffice it to say that he saw the rise and full of every successive Government from the dechsion of Independence. He witnessed the administration of Rivadavia and Rivadavia, as well as the tyranny of Rosas; he assisted at the opening of the first Congress, and lived to bless the regeneration of the Republic under General Mitre. He fought against the Spaniards, Brazilians and English; he remembered the English invasions as well as the French blockades, and during a long life time made another political nor personal enemies.

His services were not forgotten by the State, since he received a monthly pension of $ 1200, which, we understand, will be continued to his relict. He had acquired a respectable competency and passed the declining years of his cheerful age in happy retirement, although 65 years absent from his native land, his countenance would brighten up at the name of Ireland, and a tear of patriotic regret fall from his eye when he recollected that he was destined never to revisit the green hills of his boyhood.

Some months ago we had occasion to converse with him, and on casually enquiring if he would ever return to the Old Country, he replied that "he had left Ireland a Native and would never visit it a Province." For some time he was in a declining state of health and his demise, on Sunday last, was known to very few. No military escort, no funeral march, no assemblage of public functionaries, attended the last rites which a few friends rendered to their departed countryman.

His remains were consigned to their final resting place in the Recoleta, we felt that they would not be mingled with unconcerned clay for this land he fought and won, has his blood. Some future historian may one day recognise the merits of his career: the grave digger, at least, will hardly turn over the skull of a more remarkable man who lived in such obscurity, and the palm of Foreign patriarch so long held by Craig will have many competitors, but none of the 18th century.

R. I. P.

ROSARIO.

The Sisters of Charity have opened a public school, but the scale of studies is somewhat limited. On the day of inauguration (29th inst) no fewer than 20 persons were liberated from prison by the Chief of Police, in honor of the occasion. In Cordoba, a series of public festivities was got up simultaneously with the great event of Rosario; bell a ringing, fire works and a [illegible] levee took place in the forenoon, and the evening was enlivened with serenades and a grand ball.

The Municipality of Rosario return thanks to D. Tomas Penaloza for lending his house to receive the President of the triumphal arch in Arcos street, composed of foliage, and 22 feet high. The Ferro Carril pays us a flattering compliment, and says that it was by far the most splendid ornament in Rosario by untiring advocacy of whatever is calculated to advance that city.

URUGUAY.

We have the official journal of Entre Rios up to Saturday 25th. There is a correspondence between the Ministers of Interior and Gen. Urquiza: the triumphal arch in Arcos street, composed of foliage, and 22 feet high. The Ferro Carril pays us a flattering compliment, and says that it was by far the most splendid ornament in Rosario by untiring advocacy of whatever is calculated to advance that city.

Urquiza declines to accept the Presidency, but proposes that Don Justo José de Urquiza shall be elected Governor of Entre Rios up to Saturday 25th. There is a correspondence between the Ministers of Interior and Gen. Urquiza: the latter

The Standard mail on 24 Monday, was one of the heaviest we have ever dispatched. Over 3500 copies, we calculate, went to Europe per Norway, which according to our calculation is equal to 5000 emigrants.

The subscription to the "Standard" in foreign parts has latterly increased beyond all proportions, and we consider that when our Hand-book gets well circulated at home, we will have to take pattern after the "Tribuna" and get our paper printed altogether on the Zamplificonstain Style.

Amber Teeth Setting.

156—Calle Cuyo—156

Isailes E. Krause sets teeth by a new intention, amber, which is found superior to every other made. It accommodates itself to the gums and palate much better than gold, which requires plates. A set of teeth set amber, after two days, serves for mastication, speaking, and lasts a life time.

My collection of artificial teeth is very fine, and cannot be distinguished from a natural set. I will also clean teeth with great care.

I have a number of instrument for extracting teeth, also for stuffing the same with gold, silver, &c, which I guarantee for a number of years.
